ATHLETICS AT THE PENNSYLVANIA STATE COLLEGE.

The Department of Athletics and Physical Training in The Pennsylvania State College has, within recent years, come to occupy a very important place.

The College has one of the largest and best equipped gymnasiums in the State. Mr. W. N. Golden, whose natural aptitudes, long experience and observation, and special training, have admirably fitted him for his work, devotes his entire time, first, to building up the physical condition of the whole student body, and, second, to the special training of athletic teams. The Course consists of medical corrective and classified gymnastics, involving elementary, intermediate, and advanced apparatus work, together with special instruction in boxing, fencing, club swinging, &c. All this follows a thorough physical and medical examination given to each member of the Freshman and Sub-Freshman Classes, in order to note any physical defects, and also to form the basis for special exercises calculated to correct such defects or deformities.

The erection of the new Track-house is intended to provide additional facilities and conveniences for men on the several Athletic teams, at the same time that it provides a comfortable and attractive Dormitory and Club-house for them. The lower floor contains a large reception and trophy room, dining room, kitchen, office, drying room, lavatories, lockers, &c. The second and third stories are entirely occupied with dormitories, having bathrooms on each floor, and it is believed that this attractive center of athletic life will result in advancing the standard of the whole system.
